CONNECTING COMMUNITY DESIGN AND PUBLIC HEALTH

PEOPLE. PLACE. POLICY.

April 26, 2017 | 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. | Sheraton Grand Phoenix

Statewide Mayoral Roundtable on Building Healthy Communities

Phoenix Mayor Greg Stanton • Tucson Mayor Jonathan Rothschild
Winslow Mayor Robin Boyd • Coconino County Supervisor Liz Archuleta

Statewide Business Roundtable

What are companies large and small doing to support healthy communities and healthy lifestyles in Arizona?

Keynote Speaker

◀ John Auerbach, Executive Director, Trust for America's Health

Leading a nonprofit organization that makes disease prevention a national priority, Mr. Auerbach will present resources to connect community design with improved public health outcomes. He is closely monitoring changes to the healthcare system in the U.S., and will touch on "Repeal and Replacement" of the Affordable Care Act.

Community Design, Transportation & Public Health: Arizona Success Stories

Dr. Bob England, Director, Maricopa County Health Department

Rachel Zenuk, MPH, Pinal County Public Health

Community Health Assessments and Improvement Plans across Arizona consistently show that transportation is a key element in improving an entire host of social determinants that impact health. Dr. Bob England and Rachel Zenuk will showcase transportation intervention strategies that urban and rural county health departments are facilitating in Arizona that are improving public health outcomes, promoting social equity, improving the local economy and better protecting the environment.

Conference Workshop | 3-5 p.m.

Building Community Health: Using Data to Set Priorities

This workshop will guide participants in better understanding the data and their practical applications of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and the University of Wisconsin's County Health Roadmaps resource tools – with a focus on Arizona. The County Health Roadmaps provide a snapshot of a community's health and provide practical guidance and tools to better understand key health data in each county and strategies for communities to move from education to action. The tools are also a valuable resource for developing county health assessments as part of accreditation efforts.
